FROM THE DESK OF FATHER PHIL

Beloved of God in Christ,

The Anglican Communion is a worldwide expression of the reformed Catholic faith found in over 165 countries with 44 Provinces and member churches and over 85 million members, all with fraternal ties to the Church of England and recognizing the Archbishop of Canterbury as the Primus Inter Pares (first among equals), or head, of the Anglican Communion. The Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil was established through missionary efforts supported by the Episcopal Church USA (ECUSA). The Church in Brazil is an active, vital member of the Anglican Communion today.

(Holy Women, Holy Men, p.412) The Pioneers of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil

The presence of Anglicans in Brazil is first recorded in the early nineteenth century and took the form of chaplaincies for English expatriates. It was not, however, until 1890 when missionary efforts among the Brazilian people began under the care of two Episcopal Church missionaries, Lucien Lee Kinsolving and James Watson Morris. They held the first service on Trinity Sunday 1890 in Porto Alegre. Within a year, three additional missionaries—William Cabell Brown, John Gaw Meem, and Mary Packard—arrived and joined the work. These five missionaries are the pioneers and considered the founders of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil.

In 1899, Kinsolving was made missionary bishop for the work in Brazil by the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church, and in 1907 the missionary district of Brazil was established by The General Convention. The number of parishes and institutions continued to increase. The bishops were raised up from among Episcopal Church missionaries who were serving in the missionary district. Fifty years after the work first began, in 1940, the first native Brazilian was elected to the episcopate, Athalício Theodoro Pithan.

By 1950, the work had increased to the point that the missionary district was too large and it was divided into three dioceses. This set the stage for the continued development of the church in Brazil, which eventually led to the formation of the Episcopal Anglican Church of Brazil as an autonomous Province of the Anglican Communion in 1965. Complete financial independence from the Episcopal Church was completed by 1982, although the two churches continue to have strong bonds of affection and united mission efforts through companion diocese relationships and coordination at the church-wide level.

Morning by Mary Moore

You part the curtains
 And look eastward toward
 The horizon.
 The sky is still very dark.
 A deep, all encompassing darkness
 And stillness-
 Before the beginning
 Of a brand new day.
 One star - the morning star
 Shines brilliantly -
 A white diamond against a
 Black backdrop.
 Ever so slowly the light
 Becomes brighter over the horizon.
 Thin ribbons of light blue
 And orange begin to widen.
 Mother Earth is stirring from her slumber.
 A new beginning - a brand new day.
 Another chance to get it right.
